Feca-loop Benefits

- Increased Accuracy
- In-Hospital Sample Collection
- Process In-House or Outside Lab
- Increased Income (More Tests = More Income)

A Simplified Fecal Centrifugation Kit For QUICK, CLEAN & ACCURATE Results.

Centrifugation of fecal samples has now become the preferred testing method among veterinary pathologists for the recovery and identification of parasite eggs and oocysts. "If you're not using this technique, you may be overlooking parasitic, and potentially zoonotic disease. Centrifugation has a higher sensitivity in detecting parasites than simple flotation."¹

The revolutionary Feca-loop by MedSmart now provides veterinary practitioners an all-in-one fecal centrifugation test kit. The industry's only "collection to cover slip" test kit, the Feca-loop replaces the antiquated method of passive flotation techniques and the dirty, cumbersome stir stick, gauze filter and paper cup previously used. Collect, store and process the sample in one clean and cost-effective package.

Increased Accuracy:

Practitioners using centrifugation report an increase of 50 - 100% in positive fecal test results

Quotes

"We have found that passive flotation techniques can miss up to 32% of positive whipworm samples, greater than 50% of all positive Coccidia and Taenia tapeworm eggs and up to 25% of positive roundworm samples."1

"In most cases in this study, far more eggs were recovered using the CF method compared with the simple flotation method. In several cases, the CF technique produced positive results after the simple flotation technique was negative."3

"Based on the overall study findings, passive fecal flotation examinations run in private practice could be missing up to 50.5% of infected dogs, due to either technician error or inherent limitations to the passive fecal flotation technique."5

Say Thank You Today!

Take time to thank your fellow Intel Blue Badge employees. For Spontaneous Recognition Awards (SRA or "Goodie Drawer") choose from an e-Card, a gift card or a cash award. You can also nominate an individual or a group for a Division Recognition Award (DRA) but a SRA should be delivered prior to a DRA nomination. Review your options including criteria, examples and links to the tools.

Award Examples and Tools

Spontaneous Recognition Awards (SRA) are designed to acknowledge an individual or a team for things relating to the success of a project, achieving department goals, role modeling Intel values, and so on. Click below for examples and accessing the tools to get started. Remember manager approval may be required for these awards and deliver awards in an SRA in a department staff meeting.

Division Recognition Award

When employees perform to Intel values, success can come in many areas, with varying levels of impact. Some employee actions make a lasting improvement that impacts an entire division. The Intel Division Recognition Award (DRA) acknowledges this kind of "above and beyond" accomplishment. The value typically ranges from $25 to $100 USD or equivalent. See the Award Amount Guidelines in the Gift Card tool. Gift Cards may be redeemed immediately or the amount can be accumulated to redeem larger awards later.

Select Gift Card icon above. Then select Nominate icon, select nominate an employee, select value of award. Reference guide is on the same page.

Division Recognition Award (DRA)

When employees perform to Intel values, success can come in many areas, with varying levels of impact. Some employee actions make a lasting improvement that impacts an entire division. The Intel Division Recognition Award (DRA) acknowledges this kind of "above and beyond" accomplishment. It rewards outstanding performance by an employee in support of divisional goals and Intel corporate values.

To Nominate:

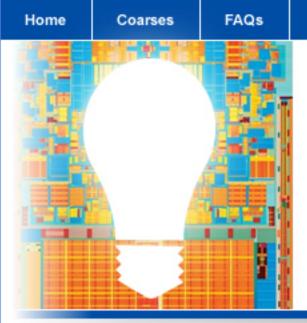

First, make sure the employee has previously received a SRA award then the process starts with your manager by nominating the blue badge employee. Your manager will know or can find out the DRA cycle that is managed by CMG staff. Be sure to include a description of the behavior worthy of the award. DRAs are normally $250 USD or equivalent. Questions can be sent to Roxanne Koester, the DRA administrative partner.

Delivery Forum

In most cases, the division general manager presents the award in a department meeting or BUM. It is important to include recognition for the employee at a staff or other public event.

NOTE: An automated DRA process is being tested in Q1 2010. More info to come.
